FACULTY OF LIFE AND HEALTH SCIENCES
HARVARD REFERENCING

1. INTRODUCTION - THE NEED FOR REFERENCING

Any piece of academic writing that you do at university or report writing during later employment will require a reference list. Referencing gives your writing very important elements such as:

- Transparency – ideas that you have included in your essay are clearly acknowledged.
- Reliability – material is provided from sources that have been written by experts.
- Traceability – people who want to check out facts that you have written can do so by easily finding your sources of information.
- Credibility – material is taken from trustworthy sources and has not been made up by you or gleaned from unreliable sources.

This may include references to data, opinions, images and a range of other information. Where research data is included then confidentiality must be maintained e.g. by anonymising responses to surveys, removing details of a patient or client.

The need to avoid plagiarism and learning to reference properly are two key parts of the same process which you need to understand. Plagiarism is considered to be any attempt to use another person’s words, data, images or ideas and present them as your own. It is cheating. The University treats plagiarism as a very serious issue and has a clear policy on plagiarism and the penalties associated with it if you are found to have plagiarised – see Appendix 1. From the outset of your academic career you need to develop good academic practices to avoid plagiarism.

1.2 How do you avoid plagiarism?

- By reading your sources of information and writing everything in your own words.
- By properly referencing the sources of the information that you have used to write your essay, report or any other piece of assessment.
- You can use information word for word but if you do this you must enclose the words in quotation marks and also reference the exact page from where you took the information.
- Do not copy the content of your own or another person’s previously submitted assignments.

These guidelines have been designed to help you correctly reference the work you use during your course, will help to ensure accuracy and consistency. An online version of this guide is available at guides.library.ulster.ac.uk/lhsharvard.

2. REFERENCING SYSTEMS

There are a number of systems for the citation of references. The Faculty of Life and Health Sciences expects students to use the author-date system known as Harvard. The exception to this is the School of Psychology where your Course Director may advise that the American Psychological Association (APA) referencing guidelines should be used. These are provided in Appendix 2.

In using the Harvard system you need to do two things:

- In the text you must include an ‘in-text citation’ e.g. (Parahoo 2014)
- At the end of your work you must include a complete list of references, in alphabetical order by author’s surname.
There must be a direct match between your in-text citation and the reference list at the end of your work with the exception of person-to-person communications (see 3.15).

A bibliography is a separate list of relevant items that you have used in the preparation of the assignment but not necessarily cited in your text. If you include a bibliography in your work, this should also be in the Harvard style. It will demonstrate that you have read widely. Individual Schools in the Faculty will advise if a bibliography is required but for most assignments it is not required.

Note: Lecture and tutorial notes, whether downloaded from Blackboard Learn or not, are not regarded as 'published' materials. They are intended as pointers toward publications or other sources rather than as source materials in themselves. So do not reference them in coursework.

3. CITING REFERENCES IN THE TEXT

Any in-text citation should include the author/s surname and the year of publication. Depending on the nature of the sentence / paragraph that is being written, references to sources may be cited in the text in the following manner:

3.1 Author’s name cited in the text

If the author’s name occurs naturally in the sentence the author’s surname is followed by the year of publication of their work in brackets:

In general, when writing for a professional publication, it is essential to make reference to other relevant published work. This view was supported in the work of Parahoo (2014).

Where you are mentioning a particular part of the work, and making direct reference to this, a page reference should be included. Put a comma then a space after year of publication. Then p. for one page or pp. if it is from two or more pages and the page number/s:

Shihab (2009, p.128) stated that the percentage of a person’s body fluid reduces as age increases and falls to as little as 45% by the age of 80 years.

3.2 Author’s name not cited directly in the text

If the author’s surname does not occur naturally in the sentence then both the author’s surname and publication year are placed at the relevant point in the sentence or at the end of the sentence, putting the author’s surname, followed by the date of publication and separated by a semi-colon; and within brackets. Note that there is no comma between the author and year.

The percentage of human body fluid decreases with increasing age (Shihab 2009).

3.3 More than one author cited in the text

Where reference is made to more than one author in a sentence, and they are referred to directly, they are both cited in date order with the earliest date of publication first:

Shihab (2009) and Parahoo (2014) have both shown …

3.4 More than one author not cited directly in the text

List these at the relevant point in the sentence or at the end of the sentence, putting the author’s surname, followed by the date of publication and separated by a semi-colon; and within brackets. Where several publications from a number of authors are referred to, then the references should be cited in chronological order (i.e. earliest first):

Accuracy of calculations and knowledge of drug interactions (Shihab 2009; Parahoo 2014; Gatford and Phillips 2016) is vital to prevent adverse effects for patients receiving drugs.
3.5 Two authors for the same work

When there are two authors for a work they should both be noted in the text. Follow the order of the authors shown in the publication. Use and between the first and second author.

Gatford and Phillips (2016) provide formulae for drug dosage calculations.

Or

Body weight and surface area are important for drug dosage calculations (Gatford and Phillips 2016).

3.6 More than two authors for a work

Where there are more than two authors only the first author should be used, followed by et al. meaning and others in italics:

Ahmed et al. (2016) found that a fixed dosage of combined drugs benefits psychiatric patients.

Or

Fixed dosage combination tablets (Ahmed et al. 2016) benefit the majority of psychiatric patients as it reduces cost and improves patient adherence.

In the reference list at the end of your document, you should include details of all authors.

3.7 Several works by the same author/s in different years

If more than one publication from an author or the same two or more authors illustrate the same point and the works are published in different years, then the references should be cited in chronological order (i.e. earliest first):

…as suggested by McKenna (1997, 2010) who found that…

…as suggested by Ryan and McKenna (2012, 2013) who looked at the care of the elderly.

Or

Decisions on caring for the elderly (Ryan and McKenna 2012, 2013) should consider …

3.8 Several works by the same author/s in the same year

If you are referencing several works published by the same author or authors in the same year, they should be differentiated by adding a lower case letter (a,b,c, etc.) with no space, after the year and in brackets:

Research by McLaughlin et al. (2013a) found that staff opinions on … . Family centred care is an important element during resuscitation of a patient (McLaughlin et al. 2013b).

If several works published by the same author or authors in the same year are referred to on a single occasion they can all be referred to by using lower case letters (as above):
McLaughlin et al. (2013a, b) researched family-centred care from both staff and ….

3.9 Chapter authors in edited works

References to the work of an author that appear as a chapter, or part of a larger work, that is edited by someone else, should be cited within your text using the surname of the contributory author not the editor of the whole work.

If Morning and Ross are the authors of a chapter in a book edited by other people:

Morning and Ross (2013) suggested that support for people with an eating disorder should include …

In the reference list at the end of your document, you should include details of both the chapter author and the editor of the entire work. See 4.5.

3.10 Corporate authors

If the work is by a recognised organisation and has no personal author then it is usually cited under the body that commissioned the work. This applies to publications by associations, companies, and government departments etc. such as Department of Health (DH), Royal Society for the Protection of Birds (RSPB), the Northern Ireland Environment Agency (NIEA) or Royal College of Nursing (RCN).

It is acceptable to use standard abbreviations for these bodies, e.g. NIEA, in your text, providing that the full name is given at the first citing with the abbreviation in brackets:

1st citation:

The Northern Ireland Environment Agency (NIEA 2015) classifies the quality of groundwater body sources by ……..

2nd and later citations:

In the NIEA (2017) report on drinking water quality ….

Note there are some exceptions to this such as BBC where the abbreviations or initials form part of the official name.

3.11 No author or editor

If the author or editor cannot be identified use Anonymous or Anon.

In a recent commentary on elderly care provision in nursing homes… (Anon. 2017)

Every effort should be made to establish the authorship if you intend to use this work as supporting evidence in an academic submission.

Some publication types are cited using their title rather than any author. For example, see: 4.4.3, 5.1, 5.2, 5.6.

When you are making a citation from a newspaper or magazine, e.g. The Guardian; Economist, which has no identifiable author, the name of the publication is used instead of Anon.
Biotechnology is being used to produce artificial leather (Economist 2017).

3.12 No date

The abbreviation nd is used to denote this:

The Western Health and Social Care Trust (WHSCT nd) have a range of bereavement support services and publications which …….

OR

Support for bereaved people is an important area of care and communication (WHSCT nd).

Every effort should be made to establish the year of publication if you intend to use this work as supporting evidence in an academic submission.

3.13 Page numbers

Page numbers are required in the in-text citation for quotations plus other items such as illustrations, diagrams, or photographs in print publications. Page numbers are preceded with the year then a comma and space. Use p. for a single page and pp. for a range of pages.

Huggett (2016, p.298) stated that “Tidal ranges have a greater impact on coastal processes than tidal types”.

If the pagination is absent on the source, e.g. on a web page, this detail is not needed.

3.14 Quoting portions of published text

If you want to include text from a published work in your essay then the words must be included within double quotation marks, and may be introduced by such phrases as:

The author stated that “……..” OR The author wrote that “……..”

If the quotation is less than a line, include it in the body of the text in double quotation marks:

The Department of Health Social Services and Public Safety (DHSSPS 2011, p.vii) stated that mental health nurses “are highly valued by service users and carers”.

Longer quotations should be indented, single-spaced and appear in double quotation marks:

A study on the environmental pollution and waste disposal benefits of using recycled vehicle tyres mixed with soil, clay or rock for landscape construction found that:

“Depending on the applications, scrap tires can be used as whole tires, shredded tire (usually 50–300 mm in size), tire chips (the wire removed from a tire and a nominal size of about 12–50 mm), granulated and ground rubber (particle size ranging from 12 to 0.425 mm and 2 to 0.425 mm, respectively).” (Noorzad and Raveshi 2017, pp.1794-1795).

Note: Quotations should be used appropriately and not excessively.
3.15 Person-to-person communications (letters, emails, interviews, etc.)

Person-to-person communications do not provide recoverable data and so are not included in the reference list. You should therefore:
- Cite personal communications in the text only.
- Give initials as well as the surname of the communicator and provide as exact a date as possible.

It is advisable to include copies or summaries of these in Appendices. For example:

According to V. Pickert, the computer technology within cars permits easier tailor-made adaptations for disabled drivers (Personal communication, 18 May 2017, see Appendix 3).

3.16 Secondary referencing

If you wish to refer to author e.g. Owens, who has been cited within a work you have read by another author e.g. McLaughlin, this is called secondary referencing. As a general principle, secondary referencing is not supported as you should only cite work that you have read. You are therefore expected to source the original work if you wish to cite it to support your writing. It is recognised that this is not always possible and an exception may be permitted (please confirm with your module coordinator / course director). Use the phrase: cited in.

Caring for a suicidal person is emotionally stressful for family relationships (Owens et al. 2011 cited in McLaughlin et al. 2014).

In this example, Owens et al. is the work that you wish to refer to, but have not read directly for yourself. McLaughlin et al. is the secondary source that cited the earlier publication.

The reference list at the end of your document should only contain works that you have read, i.e. you would reference McLaughlin et al. (2014) in the reference list.

3.17 Tables, diagrams, figures, images and photographs.

When using selected information from a table/diagram or photograph, or reproducing an entire table/diagram or photograph, a reference must be made to the source.

Tables, diagrams and photographs should be referenced in a similar way to quotations taken from a published work. Include the page number it is on as well as any identifying information about it on the page:

Health care staff must be aware of the meaning of any letters, e.g. ER or XR for extended release, after the drug name on a prescription container (Leahy 2017, p. 20, table 1).

If you reproduce the table/diagram in your essay: replicate the whole table/diagram, and add a citation below the table to acknowledge where the table was found.

3.18 Websites

When citing material found on a website, you should identify the author of the website. This may be a corporate author, an organisation or a company. A guide to this can be found by looking at the URL or finding a Home page or Contact Us link on the website. Try to find the date of publication at the bottom of a web page, copyright notice, or from a date headline.

Despite quotas on Irish Sea fishing, the catches of cod continue to decline (BBC 2014).

Where there is no identifiable, the title of the webpage can be used.

The hierarchy can broadly be divided into two categories (Evidence based practice and systematic reviews: hierarchy of evidence 2018).

3.19 Ibid

Ibid is not used in the Faculty of Life and Health Sciences Harvard Referencing guidelines.
4. COMPILING THE REFERENCE LIST

4.1 General guidelines, layout and punctuation

The purpose of a reference list is to enable the sources you have used to be easily located and checked by another reader. The Harvard style sets standards for the order and content of referencing information for different types of publication. There are certain common elements e.g. author, year of publication and title. Some variations of layout are acceptable provided they are used consistently.

All items are listed alphabetically by author, editor or title (if have no author) regardless of the format e.g. whether books, websites or journal articles etc. Where there are several works from one author or other source they should by listed together but in date order, with the earliest work listed first. If there is more than one author or editor put in the word and before the last surname.

Title page and edition details

For books, use the title page, not the book cover, for the reference details. Only include the edition where it is not the first. A book with no edition stated is most commonly a first edition. If an organisation / corporate body is the author put in its full name.

Sentence Case

Note the use of sentence case for book titles, article titles etc. For most publication types capitalise the first letter of the first word in the title as well as any proper nouns. If a publication title has the ampersand & character in its displayed title change this to the word and.

Numeracy in nursing and healthcare: calculations and practice

Environmental policy in the European Union: actors, institutions and processes

For publication types such as journal titles, acts of parliament, statutory instruments or titles of conference proceedings, capital letters are used for all words except for words that are articles (e.g. a, an, the), coordinating conjunctions (e.g. and, but, or, for, nor) and prepositions (e.g. on, at, to, by). Any ampersand symbols & are changed to the word and. For example:

International Journal of Environmental Science and Technology

Misuse of Drugs (Supervised Injecting Facilities) Act 2017.

Mobile HCI 2016: Proceedings of the 18th International Conference on Human-Computer Interaction with Mobile Devices and Services Adjunct

Online and Print formats of sources

If online material (eBooks found via the Library Catalogue, Government Department reports etc.) are also available in printed format then students should reference these items as print sources regardless of how you have viewed them. If in doubt reference the material as an online source. For journals, if the online article is identical in layout and pagination to the printed version, e.g. a pdf or scan, reference it as if it was print. If not, reference as an online source.

Lecture notes

Lecture and tutorial notes, whether downloaded from Blackboard Learn or not, are not regarded as 'published' materials and are only intended as pointers toward published sources. In other words, students should not reference them in their coursework. However, scanned chapters, journal articles etc. found on reading lists are from original print sources and therefore should be referenced.
Place of publication

For place of publication, give the town/city, not the state or country. Where there are several places of publication give the first listed on the book or its Library Catalogue record. If the place of publication may be unclear e.g. it is Cambridge in the state of Massachusetts, USA not in England then add the accepted abbreviation for this e.g. Cambridge, MA. For Publishers omit terms such as Co. or Inc. but include the words Books or Press.

4.2 Books

Author’s Surname, Initials. (Year of publication of translated version) Title of book. Edition (if not the first). Translated by Translator’s Initials. Surname. Place of publication: Publisher.

In text citation: (Freud 1954)

4.2.7 Multiple works by the same author

Where there are several works by one author, published in the same year, they should be differentiated by adding a lower case letter after the date and inside the brackets.

Remember that this letter must also be consistent with the citations in the text.

4.2.8 Multi-volume works

For multi-volume works the required elements for a reference are:

Author Surname, INITIALS. (Year(s)) Title of book. number of volumes. Place of publication: Publisher.
4.2.9 One volume in a multi-volume set without an individual volume title:

4.2.10 Corporate author publications

Some publications do not have a personal author or editor; instead they are authored by a body such as an association, company, government department etc.

For corporate authors the required elements for a reference are:

Corporate author. (Year) Title. Place of publication: Publisher.

With a corporate author, capital letters are used for all words except for those which are articles (e.g. a, an, the), coordinating conjunctions (e.g. and, but, or, for, nor) and prepositions (e.g. on, at, to, by).

The place of publication should distinguish between organisations with an identical name e.g. London: Department of Health; Belfast: Department of Health.

Or

Or

Author/editor Surname, INITIALS./Corporate author. (Year) Title of book or report. (Series title and volume number). Place of publication: Publisher.

4.2.12 Electronic books (eBooks)

If you are certain that the material you are referencing is only published in electronic format the following guidelines should be used.

Author Surname, INITIALS. (Year) Title of book. Edition (if not the first). Place of publication: Publisher. Available at: URL [Accessed date].

4.2.13 Encyclopaedias and Dictionaries

If an encyclopaedia entry has a named author then the format for a contribution in an edited book should be used with the addition of the encyclopaedia volume number if any.

Contributing author’s Surname, INITIALS. (Year) Title of contribution. In: Surname, INITIALS of editor of publication followed by ed. or eds. if relevant. Title of book, Volume number (if are separate volumes). Edition (if not the first). Place of publication: Publisher, page numbers of contribution.

Where no author or editor details are available use the Short Title / Publisher:

Short Title / Publisher. (Year) Title of contribution. In: Title of source. Edition (if not the first). Place: Publisher, page numbers of contribution.

Cite in-text as:
Myocardial infarction (Mosby 2013) is defined as ….

A short title is an abbreviated title which can be used for the in-text citation and beginning of the reference rather than the full title. For example: ICD-10 mental and behavioural disorders. Instead of: The International Classification of Diseases 10 classification of mental and behavioural disorders: clinical descriptions and diagnostic guidelines.

If the material you are referencing is only published in electronic format:

As above but including: Available at: URL [Accessed date].

Where no author or editor details are available use the Short Title / Publisher:

4.3 Journal Articles and Newspapers

4.3.1 Journal articles

The required elements for a journal article reference are:

Author Surname, INITIALS. (Year) Title of article. Title of Journal, volume number(issue or part number, if present), page numbers of the article.

The reference has all pages not just the page/s from which you get relevant information.

4.3.2 Journal articles with one author

4.3.3 Journal articles with two or more authors

Or

4.3.4 Journal articles where no author details are listed

Use Anonymous or Anon. to indicate it is anonymous. Critically assess its quality before using. See 3.11 above.

4.3.5 Electronic journal (eJournal) articles

If the online article is identical in layout and pagination to the printed version, e.g. a pdf or scan, reference it as if it was print. If not, reference it as follows:

Author Surname, INITIALS. (Year) Title of article. Title of Journal, volume number(issue or part number), page numbers of the article (if available). Available at: URL [Accessed date].

If the online article is from an internet only journal, reference as follows:

Author Surname, INITIALS. (Year) Title of article. Title of Journal, volume number(issue or part number), page numbers of the article (if available). Available at: URL [Accessed date].

Digital Object Identifier (doi)
A ‘doi’ often replaces the URL as it is the permanent identifier for the source, and so therefore it is not necessary to include an accessed date.

Author Surname, INITIALS. (Year) Title of article. Title of Journal, volume number (issue or part number). doi

4.3.6 Pre-publication journal articles

Author Surname, INITIALS. (Year) Title of Article. Title of Journal, In Press. Available at: URL [Accessed date]. For articles that are described as ‘In Press’ include the full URL.

For referencing, check if the word The is at the beginning of the actual title of the newspaper title e.g. The Guardian; Times Higher Education.

Where no author is given change the citation order to use the title of the newspaper first:

Cite in-text as:

The chief executive of the Royal College of Midwives (RCM) stated that healthy women over 40 have a relatively small increase in severe complications during childbirth (Belfast Telegraph 2017).

4.3.8 Online newspaper articles

In-text citation: (Western Health and Social Care Trust nd)

4.4.3 Reference to a web page with no visible author

If the individual or corporate author cannot be identified please use the following:

Title of web page. (Year of Publication/revision) Place of Publication: Publisher (if known). Available at: URL [Accessed Date].

In-text citation: (Evidence based practice and systematic reviews: hierarchy of evidence 2018).
5. OTHER TYPES OF DOCUMENT

There are other types of documents that you can cite in your written text and include in your reference list. Some examples with the required elements for a reference are set out below.

5.1 Acts of Parliament

The required elements for a reference are:

Title including year. (Chapter number), Place of publication: Publisher.

Mental Capacity Act (Northern Ireland) 2016. (c.18), Norwich: The Stationery Office.

From 1986 onwards HMSO became The Stationery Office (TSO).

For Acts prior to 1963, the regnal year and parliamentary session are included:

Suicide Act 1961. (9 and 10 Eliz. 2, c.60), London: HMSO.

If you need to cite a specific section include the section number s. as illustrated below:

Mental Capacity Act (Northern Ireland) 2016. s.16 (c.18), Norwich: The Stationery Office.

The in-text citation will have the title, which includes the year, in italics e.g.:

Section 16 of the Mental Capacity Act (Northern Ireland) 2016 states that a second opinion must be sought before giving potentially harmful treatment such as electro-convulsive therapy.

For Acts of a parliament or other legislative body outside the UK include the name of the country or state, in English, at the beginning of the reference. For example, Ireland; European Union. For other points in the reference, follow the referencing details as specified on the original document.

5.2 Statutory Instruments and Statutory Rules

Title including year. SI year/number. Place of publication: Publisher.

Note that for a UK regional / national assembly or parliament e.g. N. Ireland Assembly, Scottish Parliament there may be an overall UK number plus a local specific regional one. For N. Ireland Statutory Instruments the (N.I.) specific number is in brackets is after the primary SI.

Title including year. SR year/number. Place of publication: Publisher.

For equivalent enactment / commencement legislation from outside the UK add the name of the state, regional assembly or government. For other points in the reference follow the referencing information as given on the original document. So in the example below the text on the document has only the first word of the text in brackets with a capital letter.

5.3 Official publications such as Command Papers, House of Commons Papers

Author/Organisation. (Year) Title. (Officially assigned number following format given on the document). Place of publication: Publisher, first page number if part of a bigger volume with continuous pages. Follow the citation style, punctuation and letter case as provided on the full-text of the original document.

5.4 Parliamentary Papers

Great Britain

The abbreviation for the law reporting series. Part number/case number/page reference if available. Use a comma between details of one case law report publication and a second - if reported in more than one.

Cite the case in-text using the title and year of the case e.g.

In a legal judgement (Jabang v Wadman and others 2017) some doctors were found to have failed to diagnose spinal tuberculosis as the reason for increasing back pain. As a result, the patient is now paraplegic and unable to work.

APPENDIX 1 – ULSTER UNIVERSITY PLAGIARISM POLICY (2012)

Source:  http://www.ulster.ac.uk/academicservices/staff/offences.pdf [Accessed 13 September 2017].

Policy

The University’s policy is that plagiarism, whether deliberate or unintentional, is a form of cheating and is unacceptable. It is expected that all students are educated in correct academic practice, including writing and referencing, early in their careers at the University and know what is expected of them and understand the meaning of plagiarism and its consequences.

Definition of plagiarism

The University’s definition of plagiarism makes explicit that copying from texts or web or other sources and copying work from other students constitutes plagiarism. It reads:

Plagiarism is the act of taking or copying someone else’s work, including another student’s, and presenting it as if it were one’s own. Plagiarism is said to occur when ideas, texts, theories, data, created artistic artefacts or other material are presented without acknowledgement so that the person considering this work is given the impression that what they have before them is the student’s own original work when it is not. Plagiarism also occurs where a student’s own work is re-presented without being properly referenced. Plagiarism is a form of cheating and is a disciplinary offence.

This definition is given in the University Student Handbook and Course/Subject Handbooks.

Student declaration

The standard coursework submission sheet for the receipting of coursework includes an explicit reference to the University’s definition of plagiarism as follows.

I declare that this is my own work and that any material I have referred to has been accurately and consistently referenced. I have read the University’s policy on plagiarism and understand the definition of plagiarism as given in the [course/subject] handbook. If it is shown that material has been plagiarised, or I have otherwise attempted to obtain an unfair advantage for myself or others, I understand that I may face sanctions in accordance with the policies and procedures of the University. A mark of zero may be awarded and the reason for that mark will be recorded on my file.

The declaration of ownership is automatically generated in Blackboard Learn. It should also be used when assignments are submitted by other electronic means.

Penalties

The University’s Policy provides simple, graduated Frameworks of Penalties for plagiarism relating the severity of penalties to the number of offences and gives individual, formative advice after the first offence. There are both academic and disciplinary consequences. Disciplinary penalties in taught courses and the MRes are not applied until the second offence. Offences are counted cumulatively, regardless of any change of course but do not carry over from undergraduate to postgraduate level. The Framework of Penalties for taught programmes and the MRes and that for other research degrees follow.

Monitoring of Policy

The efficacy of the Policy is monitored by the Teaching and Learning Committee which receives annual reports from the Faculties and the Research Degrees Committee.

APPENDIX 2 – AMERICAN PSYCHOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION (APA) REFERENCING GUIDELINES

These guidelines are to be used by students of the School of Psychology when advised so by their Course Director.

1. When a reference is required

A reference is required in the text whenever you refer to the work of an author. There are three major reasons for using references. Firstly, it is a mark of intellectual honesty. You must not claim the thought of others as being your own. Secondly, it is a means of defence: any errors in what is being said revert to the original author and not to yourself. Thirdly, it provides the reader with the means of consulting the original work from which the thoughts or findings emanate.

There are a variety of methods of referencing literature for assignments. You should use the APA referencing system for all coursework (unless otherwise instructed). This is also known as the ‘Name and Year’ system and is used in many journals. The one big advantage of this system is convenience for the author because as references are unnumbered they can easily be deleted or added (if preparing an article for a particular journal it is necessary to follow the style used by that journal).

2. Reference citations in the body of your text

In the body of the text, at the point where you wish to cite a reference, put the author’s name(s) and the date of publication in brackets with a comma and space between them.

Single author.
e.g. Brief Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (BCBT) was adapted as an intervention for suicide prevention by military personnel (Rudd, 2012).

For two authors.
Provide the surnames of each separated by an &. For example, …… (Leavey & Hawkins, 2017).

Three or more authors.
If you cite a publication that has three or more authors you must supply all surnames for the first time you cite it. Put a comma between the surnames until an & before the last surname. For example,

…… (Asarnow, Hughes, Babeva & Sugar, 2017).

However if you cite the same publication again later just give the first author’s surname and use “et al.” for the others. For example,

…… intervention was tested in a randomised controlled trial (Asarnow et al., 2017).

Where the name of the author/s appear as part of the sentence, give only the date of the publication in brackets. For example,

Eysenck and Keane (2015) suggests that cognitive behaviour therapy …

In a systematic review of psychosocial interventions for depression Devenish, Berk and Lewis (2016) found that ……
Referencing guidelines: American Psychological Association (APA)

If more than one work referred to is by the same author, or the exact same combination of authors, in a particular year then use a letter as a suffix after the date to distinguish among them e.g.

Research by McLaughlin, Melby and Coates (2013a) found that staff opinions on ….. . Family centred care is an important element….(McLaughlin et al., 2013b).

2.1 Quotations

If you present a direct quote, that is, the use of exactly the same words as the author in your text then you must

- Use quotation marks
- Give the author, date then the page number/s in brackets at the end of the quote.

For example:

Hargie (2017) states that “the use of probing questions” (p.187) is a skill which enhances active listening.

2.2 Multiple sources

Where a number of different publications are referred to in relation to one point, list the authors alphabetically based on the first author for each reference. For example:

Best, Manktelow and Taylor (2016), Rasmussen, O’Connor and Hawton (2014), Taylor et al. (2014) have conducted research that proves that the mental health of adolescents in Northern Ireland has been influenced by exposure to violence.

2.3 Anonymous source

If an author is not named and you cannot find the original source it is permissible to move the article title to the author position (long titles can be shortened).

If the author is an organisation this can be written in the narrative, for example:

The British Psychological Society (2014) has a code of human research ethics which ….

Or in parentheses as:

The misuse of drugs prescribed to people with mental illness is a concern for health and social care providers (Department of Health, 2017).

3. Presentation of a Reference List

Your reference list must be put at the end of your work, but before any appendices. Always give it a clear heading and make sure you present a list of all the references which have appeared in your text. The publications are listed in alphabetical order according to the first author’s surname. Books and journal articles should not be subdivided in your list.

3.1 Listing a reference for a book

Please adhere to the following format when referencing a book:

Author’s Surname comma Initials fullstop (year) fullstop
Referencing guidelines: American Psychological Association (APA)

e.g. Eysenck, M.W. & Keane, M.T. (2015).

Title (edition) fullstop

Cognitive psychology: A student’s handbook (7th ed.).

Place of Publication colon name of Publisher fullstop

Then combine these elements for the complete reference.

For example:

3.2 Listing a Chapter From an Edited Book

The chapter is described first, the word (In) is inserted and the book from which the chapter is taken is described as outlined in section 3.1 above, remembering to insert (Ed. or Eds.). Add the page number range for the chapter in brackets after the book title and edition.

For example:

To refer to a specific page in a book use p.

To refer to a page range in a book use pp.

3.3 Listing an Article From a Journal

Author(s) Surname, Initial(s) (Date). Title of article. Title of journal, volume number, pages.

For example:

The issue number of the journal is not required in the APA referencing style unless each issue of the journal in a volume restarts its pagination at page 1.

3.4 Primary and Secondary Sources

A primary source is the original piece of work that you wish to refer to in your work.

A secondary source is a piece of work that you have read that has made reference to some work that is of interest to you (the primary source), but you have not read this original primary source and wish to refer to it in your work.
Referencing guidelines: American Psychological Association (APA)

You must give the reference for the source you actually read.

For example:

You are writing an essay about attachment and go to the library, find and read Bowlby’s book Attachment and loss. You take notes from this so must cite in your writing:

Reference in-text

For example:

Bowlby (1997) suggested that all mothers...

Reference List

In the reference list you give a straightforward reference to the book (as previously outlined), for example:

However, if you didn't actually read the book Attachment and loss but read about it in a book or article written by another author then the latter source is a secondary source.

In this example you would reference as follows:

Reference in-Text

Refer to the primary source in the text i.e. Bowlby (as cited in Iwaniec, 2006) suggested that all mothers ...

Reference List

Note, here only the secondary source is required:

3.5 Listing a Web Page

If you are taking a reference off the Internet you should identify the author or company, date, title of document, format, URL. Please note, the title is not placed in italics.

For example:

3.6 Listing Tests and Other Materials

Questionnaires, scales etc. should also be referenced. Test manuals are referenced as books.
3.7 Listing Articles From Newspapers / Magazines

Often these articles can be referenced in a similar way to journal articles.

For referencing check if the word The is at the beginning of the actual title of the newspaper or magazine title e.g. The Guardian; Times Higher Education.

For example:

N.B. There should be no reference in your text without it appearing in your reference list.

Examples of how to use the APA referencing system can be found in practically all the psychology specific material you read. House styles differ slightly, but the basic rules are always the same.
